

“Uncovering the Story of an Asian-American Female Producer from the 1940's – Clips & Conversation with Finding KUKAN Director Robin Lung”

Wednesday, October 18th ▪ 1:30-3:00 pm
25 Park Place, 2nd Floor ▪ Room 223 (CAS Event Center)

Sponsored by  Georgia State University | ASIAN STUDIES CENTER

In the award-winning documentary Finding KUKAN, Robin Lung investigates the compelling story of Li Ling-Ai, the Chinese American female producer of KUKAN. The landmark color documentary about World War II atrocities in China won an Academy Award® in 1942. Lost for decades, Lung discovers a badly damaged print and pieces together the inspirational tale behind Li and her cameraman Rey Scott. Join us as Lung talks about her 8-year journey and lessons learned along the way.

Robin Lung is a 4th generation Chinese American from Hawai'i with a 16-year history of bringing untold minority and women's stories to film. A Stanford University & Hunter College graduate, she discovered this calling after successful careers in book publishing and higher education.

Co-Sponsors

School of Film, Media, & Theatre ▪ Institute for Women's, Gender, & Sexuality Studies
Multicultural Center ▪ Asian Studies Club ▪ Pi Delta Psi Fraternity, Inc.

“Finding KUKAN” (2016 ▪ 75 minutes) screens at the Atlanta Asian Film Festival
Saturday, October 14th, 4:00pm at GSU Dunwoody Campus - NC 1100 ▪ 2101 Womack Rd.
All AAFF Dunwoody Screenings FREE for GSU students/faculty/staff with GSU ID ▪ www.atlaff.org